

Joining the beta test for Android apps Content_v1

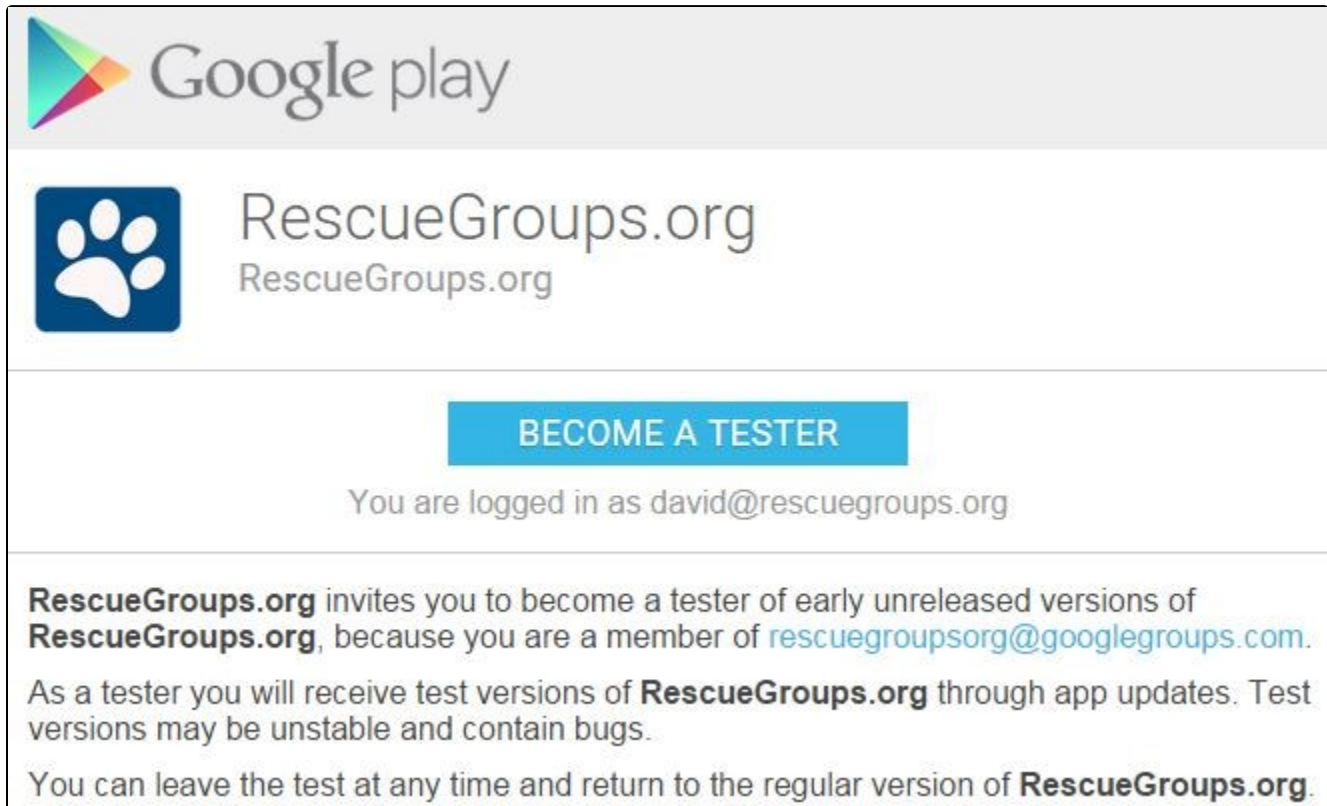

Wait to receive the confirmation that you have been added to the Google group.

Signing up for beta testing

Once you receive your confirmation that you have been added to the Google group, sign-up for the beta testing here:

<https://play.google.com/apps/testing/org.rescuegroups.manage>

When you access the link, you should see a button to Become a Tester.

i If you see a message like Sorry - nothing to see here you may not be logged in with the Google account that was given access to the Android App Beta group above, or you haven't waited long enough for us to add you to the group. There are issues Google and this process, so it's not always consistent. If you continue to have problems, it may be easiest to start your web browser in Incognito or Private Browsing mode, log in to your Google account, and go to the App URL above.

Getting the test version

Once you click the Become a Tester button you will see a screen like this:

RescueGroups.org

RescueGroups.org

You are now a tester

You are logged in as david@rescuegroups.org

Get the test version

If you have RescueGroups.org already installed on your device, you will receive an automatic update. If you don't have RescueGroups.org installed, download it from the Play Store. It can take a few hours before the test version is available.

Leave the test

You can leave the test at any time. After leaving the test, you need to un-install the test version and re-install the regular version from the Play Store.

Leave the test

Download RescueGroups.org from the Play Store

Click the Download RescueGroups.org from the Play Store to download and install the app on your device.